

University of Groningen

Growth aspirations of women entrepreneurs in tourism in Tanzania

Lugalla, Irene Mkini

IMPORTANT NOTE: You are advised to consult the publisher's version (publisher's PDF) if you wish to cite from it. Please check the document version below.

Document Version

Publisher's PDF, also known as Version of record

Publication date:

2018

Link to publication in University of Groningen/UMCG research database

Citation for published version (APA):

Lugalla, I. M. (2018). Growth aspirations of women entrepreneurs in tourism in Tanzania. [Thesis fully internal (DIV), University of Groningen]. University of Groningen, SOM research school.

Copyright

Other than for strictly personal use, it is not permitted to download or to forward/distribute the text or part of it without the consent of the author(s) and/or copyright holder(s), unless the work is under an open content license (like Creative Commons).

The publication may also be distributed here under the terms of Article 25fa of the Dutch Copyright Act, indicated by the "Taverne" license. More information can be found on the University of Groningen website: <https://www.rug.nl/library/open-access/self-archiving-pure/taverne-amendment>.

Take-down policy

If you believe that this document breaches copyright please contact us providing details, and we will remove access to the work immediately and investigate your claim.

Downloaded from the University of Groningen/UMCG research database (Pure): <http://www.rug.nl/research/portal>. For technical reasons the number of authors shown on this cover page is limited to 10 maximum.

Stellingen

- 1 “The institutional environment in Tanzania determines the business development and growth aspirations of women entrepreneurs in important ways”. (This thesis Chapter 3 and 4).
2. “In a weak institutional environment, inconsistencies , uncertainties, and mistrust affect researchers, entrepreneurs, business environment as well as the government particularly in collecting taxes and information” (This thesis chapter 4, 5, and 6).
3. “Normative institutions are key in Zanzibar, and the socio-economic background is important for understanding institutional disarrays” (This thesis chapter 6).
4. “Female entrepreneurs use capital they hold, their habitus, and organize themselves within their professional networks to actively respond to institutional tensions and pressure by complying, defying, manipulating, and trying to avoid the normative institution tensions and pressure”. (This thesis chapter 6).
5. The socio-economic background is an essential factor for female entrepreneurs to access cultural, social, and economic capital (This thesis Chapter 7).
6. “In Tanzania, education and financial capital are determinant factors for business growth” (This thesis chapter 7).
7. “An Educated woman will facilitate the education of her family and are important role models to their families” (This thesis Chapter 7)
8. “Entrepreneurship in Tanzania facilitates the unemployed to employ themselves and for the uneducated or less educated to secure employment and income” (This thesis Chapter 7).
9. “By supporting your family or kinsmen, you are supporting the community” African proverb.